

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electron beam recording substrate which holds a resist film where electron beam information recording is carried out and which has a surface layer area made of a material that suppresses enlargement of a scattering distribution diameter of electrons spread inside by irradiation of an electron beam from a resist film side.